iPod Extract is a very small and easy to use program that will help you transfer image and audio files from iPod to your computer. This program is a freeware. ... This is not the same as How can I import music to iTunes?. The linked post has lots of tools and descriptions on importing music to iTunes. A pack of uninvited Halloween ghouls are heading to the home of one of Australia's most famous villains. Police in Melbourne have warned of the plague of creepy clowns who might be lurking around suburban streets dressed in black on Monday. Police Commissioner Stephen Fontana said he expected as many as six hoax calls about clowns to be made in the inner-west. "I would expect there to be some calls but don't expect anything to be particularly alarming," he said. "Obviously I'm not saying you can't see it as a little bit of a nuisance... but I wouldn't expect anything really that bad to happen." The commissioner said clown hoax calls were on the increase. "We have heard of clown calls in the past but not to this extent," he said. "The police service is committed to keeping our community safe and we will be prepared for these calls." Last month a priest in Pakenham, near Melbourne, was killed when a man dressed as a clown stormed into his church. The killer fled the scene after the attack. Last year a man dressed as a clown was punched in the face and stamped on by children in a playground at Warragul in northern Victoria. In June, Australian comedian Vince Martin dressed as a clown on a public appearance and ended up handcuffed when he refused to give his name to police. He later told the ABC the incident had been "a farce". In Sydney's east, several clowns have been spotted lurking near police stations and committing crimes. Police in the area said they had never seen a rise in clown attacks. Police say they will be warning people about the reports of clowns. "If you see anyone dressed as a clown lurking around your neighbourhood, call the police," Sergeant Chris Merriman said. "For example, we have a young child who was out in the street as we speak, dressed as a clown." Victoria Police began sending out fake press releases on clown sightings earlier this year. "We have had people who come
