There is a controversy regarding whether to perform carotid endarterectomy in patients with aneurysms of the internal carotid artery. The aim of this study is to demonstrate the results of carotid endarterectomy in patients with aneurysms of the carotid artery and the risk factors for restenosis. The records of patients operated on for carotid stenosis or aneurysm of the internal carotid artery between 1990 and 1998 at the Hospital de Clínicas of the Universidad de Chile were reviewed. A total of 39 patients were included, all were submitted to carotid endarterectomy and 17 of them were submitted to unclamping and reconstructive carotid surgery. The evaluation was focused on the immediate results and the incidence of restenosis during follow up. The overall mortality was 7.7%, the perioperative stroke was 1.4%, while the incidence of the restenosis during follow up was 31.2%. Of the variables examined only the presence of hypertension was associated with
